

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to air a thoroughly
disingenuous
anti-Kerry
"documentary" called
"Stolen Honor" days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of media consolidation
by political organizations.

It's not about
liberal or conservative. It's about corruption,
the destruction of
democratic discourse, and Big Media skewing
elections. Corporate controlled media in America is tantamount to corporate mind control. It's simply wrong.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies
control the airwaves, we get more of what's good
for their bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy, which is being beaten into a meaningless relic of what it once stood for.

We need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license
renewal process

needs to involve
more than a returned postcard. Sinclair
must be taken to task. It's democracy, media
integrity and freedom that are losing their honor
thanks to outfits
like Sinclair Broadcasting.

Thank you.
